New Building Is Beginning of "Dream Plan"

Marvin Delivers Address at Ground-Breaking Service Yesterday

SOUVENIRS DEPOSITED

Ted Pierson, Bourke Floyd
Remove First Spade-
fuls of Earth

"This is only the beginning of the building program dream we have for George Washington University," said President Cloyd Heck Marvin at the ground breaking ceremonies of the new Biological Sciences building, held at 5 o'clock last evening in the Yard. The building now being erected, President Marvin indicated, while not a permanent structure, represents the beginning of a new building program for the University. Other halls of instruction which will follow will be of similar modern architecture adopted to modern municipal life.

Officials Spoke

Residence halls such as women's hall soon to be erected through the gift of Mrs. Henry A. Strong will be in the Georgian Colonial tradition which will lend itself to housing. Next in order he indicated will be construction of a gymnasium and field house.

Following talks by President Marvin, Walter R. Tuckerman, and Mrs. Joshua Evans, members of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Elmer L. Kayser, University marshal, presided, and activities leaders deposited records and documents in a strong box, which will be placed later in the cornerstone of the new building.

The first spadefuls of earth were removed by Ted Pierson, Student Council President and Bourke Floyd, President-elect of the Student Council, after which singing of the national anthem followed.

Students Participated

Students who participated and articles deposited were:

Copies of The University Hatchet, Eleanor Heller, editor; the Cherry Tree, Betty Jackson, editor; the University catalogue, Bourke Floyd, president-elect of the Student Council; the Student Handbook, Otto Schoenfelder, editor; athletic program, Raymond Combes, senior manager of athletics; women's athletic program, Ruth Critchfield, president of the Women's Athletic Association.

Debate program, Arthur Murphy, manager of men's debates; women's debate program, Maxine Farley, manager of women's debates; Fiesta program and record of the Christmas Food Drive, Sam Futrovsky, director; Glee Club program, Raymond Robinson, student director; Troubadours program, Sam Detweiler Jr.; Cue and Curtain program, Floyd Sparks, business manager; Rouser's Club record, Everett Strandell, president; and University Band records, Orrin Bartlett, president.

Architect's Conception of Building of Biological Sciences

'35 Cherry Tree, Featuring Queens, Issued Yesterday

MacClelland Barclay Picks
Margaret Wadsworth in Third Competition

Featuring the picture of Margaret Wadsworth, Kappa Delta, winner of the beauty queen contest, the Cherry Tree was released yesterday.

Second and third places in the third annual beauty competition went to Dora Ramirez d'Arellano, Phi Mu, and Jeanne Krieger, Sigma Kappa.

Also featured in the yearbook is the "Hall of Fame" pictures of students selected by a faculty committee as the most outstanding in the graduating class. Four men and four women were honored in this competition. They are Betty Brown, John Busick, Amanda Chittum, Bernard Fagelson, Gretchen Feiker, Adele Gusack, Walter Rhinehart, and Henry Rulley.

Dedicated To Doyle

This year the Cherry Tree honored Henry Gratton Doyle, Dean of Columbian College, and dedicated the yearbook to him.

In a vivid, newsy style, the March of Events, edited by Richard P. Croyke, gives a pictorial record of the outstanding events of the past school year. The section is larger and gives a more representative view of the year than those in the past.

"Queerviews" New

A popular innovation this year is "Campus Queerviews", unusual pictures of unusual spots in and around the Yard. They were taken and compiled by Croyke.

For the first time in recent years the Medical school has its own section in the Cherry Tree. Ten pages are devoted to things of special interest to the future doctors. Informal snapshots, views of medical buildings, history of the class, pictures of graduates, of medical fraternities, and of the medical faculty are all included in this special section.

Campus Views Striking

Beautiful, full page illustrations of campus scenes are included in the Views section. Especially noteworthy is a winter scene of the Yard with trees and buildings blanketed with snow.

The editor of the annual is Betty Bacon and John Busick is business manager. Other members of the board are Harry Ames, Helen Burton, Muriel Chamberlain, and Eldridge Loeffler.

According to Busick, plenty of copies still remain on sale at the Publications Office. The price is four dollars.

Steam Shovels To Finish Work Begun by Spaders

New "Line and Mass" Style Building Designed by Crandall, Merry, To Cost $100,000 for Construction, $35,000 for Equipment

By Howard Ennes

Steam shovels will soon continue the spading operations begun yesterday on the site of the new Biological Sciences Building.

Before actual building operations begin, however, the now deserted registrar's office must be torn down, and toward this end work will begin today. Construction of the protecting fence around the entire plot to be occupied by the new structure will also start.

The new science building, known as a "line and mass" building, and the entire effect is produced by use of bold horizontal lines.

The exterior was designed by Prof. Norris I. Crandall, director of the Division of Fine Arts, and interior planning was made by C. E. Merry, supervisor of University buildings.

Construction costs for the building are estimated at approximately $100,000, with equipment costing around $35,000. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by the University term next fall.

Although the building has been designed with an artistic standard in mind, and also with a view toward conforming with other University units, convenience and

Committee Names Student Members

Four Made Sub-committee
To Consider Constitution for Carnival

Charles Chestnut, Ruth Critchfield, James Edwards, and Ted Pierson, the student members of the Student Life Committee, were appointed as a subcommittee to solve the problems presented by the proposed Fiesta constitution at a meeting of the Student Life Committee at noon Monday.

The problem to be solved is whether the Fiesta board shall be self-perpetuating as is The Hatchet board, or whether the Student Council shall reserve the right to confirm appointments or submit new appointees.

Provides for Board

The Fiesta constitution as drawn up provided for a self-perpetuating board. The Student Council's opposition to this measure was the occasion for last Monday's discussion and the appointment of the sub-committee.

Both Edwards and Pierson agreed that the solution would probably provide for a board with power to elect its own new members but that these elections would be subject to the ratification of the Student Council and that the Council would retain the right to appoint members when it might see fit.

Speakers to the Bar who are experienced in specialized fields of law, as well as more appellate court case arguments before recognized jurists.

8. A subscription to the Law Review for every Bar member.

4. A definite social program which calls for at least two major social functions a year.

Haley succeeds Stanley W. Boback, the Bar's founder and first president.

Founded last year and modeled after similar bar associations at Harvard and Duke Universities, the Student Bar has brought prominent jurists and specialists in legal fields to the University as speakers.

Student Bar Association Elects James Haley New President

James Haley was elected president of the Student Bar Association according to an announcement today by Deacon Arledge, elections chairman.

Vice presidents elected were James Edwards, Pat Marshall, Bob Marcus, and George Powell.

Anne Basseler and Elizabeth Dixon were named secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Haley has urged the adoption of a four point program calling for:

1. A reduction in dues from the present four-dollar fee to two dollars, or as nearly to that figure as can be possibly arranged.

2. A more elaborate law practice program which will bring more

Student Program, 'The Mad Carlotta,' Broadcast Tonight

WMAL To Present Final
Episode of "The World
Builder" at 10:30

The fifth and final episode of the student radio program, "The Mad Carlotta," will be broadcast tonight over WMAL at 10:30, over the N. B. C. network.

The leading role of Carlotta will be played by Margaret Long. Other women's parts are: Dona Pepita Varela, Amanda Chittum; Maria de Barrios, Peggy Moore; and the Empress Eugenie, Charlotte Dolbin.

The men's parts will include Maximilian, John Coggins; DeTroyat, J. Paul Ward; General Basaine, Harold L. Minor; Napoleon III, Deane Bryant; Pope Pius IX, Harry Fonoroff; and Narator, Gardiner Crabbe.

The sound effects are in charge of Ted Kimball, assisted by Harry Fonoroff. The musical sequences have been arranged by Robert Greenwell, noted Washington composer and a member of the creative writing class.

Tells Carlotta's Troubles
"The Mad Carlotta," written by Celina Rio Leonard depicts the efforts of the wife of Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico, to save her husband's throne. Needing both troops and money to prosecute a campaign against the Mexican patriot, Juarez, Carlotta finally decided to sail for France herself, for aid.

Refused by Napoleon III, who had been responsible for setting up the Empire in Mexico, Carlotta finally appealed to the Pope, but was refused aid. With health shattered, and her mind weakened after many trials, Carlotta finally went insane, and was kept in seclusion in Belgium, until her death in 1927.

Alba Meadows Elected
Spanish Club President

Alba Meadows was elected president of the Spanish Club at the final meeting of the year. Other officers elected are Charlotte Pierce, vice president; Cayetano Nagac, secretary; and Leila Fern, treasurer.

Next Hatchet June 5
The Hatchet will not be issued again until June 5. At that time a special convocation edition will be printed.

Completing 40 years of active service on the University's faculty, Provost William A. Wilbur will become Professor Emeritus at the University's 114th June commencement, June 5, in Constitution Hall.

The official tribute to 71-year-old "Dean" Wilbur will be delivered by President Marvin. Dean Wilbur will reply.

A graduate of Brown University, Dr. Wilbur holds the honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws from George Washington, conferred upon him four years ago, and Doctor of Letters from Brown.

Dean Wilbur began his service for George Washington University in 1895 as head of the University's preparatory school. Since 1897 he has held the chair of English literature at the University, and

Exitus Acta Probat

And Now, Building!

THERE has been on the campus recently quite a bit of tearing down, and now there is beginning some building up, literally speaking.

Yesterday the long awaited and much anticipated ground breaking for the new biological sciences building took place. This marked the actual beginning of the first major building operation in some years.

The occasion yesterday was a happy one for students, alumni and prospective students, as well as for the Administration, which has been untiring in its efforts, against numerous obstacles, in improving the physical plant of the institution.

Next in importance to a first class academic standing, which we already have, is a first class plant, which we are now acquiring. While the building is always secondary to the business, we believe that, in a University like George Washington, modern building facilities are not only important but essential.

The new building itself, an architect's drawing and description of which appear on the front page of this issue, is indeed an excellent one. Nothing seems to have been spared in providing for a building which is up-to-date in every respect.

Designed in keeping with modern architectural trends, the new building will fit nicely into the permanent structural scheme of which Corcoran and Belmont Halls are the landmarks. Perhaps, too, this new building may be joined even before the present Freshman class graduates, by another structure, similar in appearance, on the present library site.

Whether or not such a plan develops materially in the near future, The Hatchet is happy and proud to join in celebrating the beginning of actual construction on the new home for the biological sciences.

"... For A Lovely Evening"

THE Senior Ball, given each year by the Alumni Association in honor of the seniors, is always one of the most enjoyable of the many affairs crowded into graduation week.

The ball this year will be held in one of the finest ballrooms in Washington, a popular orchestra has been selected to furnish the music, in fact, every requisite for a successful ball has been included in the arrangements for Saturday night's affair.

Such thoughtfulness on the part of the alumni in so honoring the seniors each year is indeed commendable. Usually, alumni's primary interest is in the alma mater and seldom does that feeling extend to the students. But, our alumni are different, they not only take an active part in the University but in addition show a friendly feeling toward and interest in the students.

We believe the seniors will really appreciate the dance and as they themselves are prospective members of the Alumni Association, will be proud to affiliate with this splendid organization.

For Your Library

A WARM fire burns in the fire place. Soft green light from the lamp on the library table hardly reaches the far corners of the tall and stately bookcases. A man, slightly gray, sits in the green leather chair.

He is reading the 1935 Cherry Tree. He is recalling those queer, pleasant days way-back-there in college. The book's green and black cover, although a little dusty from the years, nevertheless seems to fit in with the tone of this library. Page by page the gentleman turns slowly through the book admiring the taste and skill with which the youthful editors—for they seem young now—pictured the life of the University.

The silver, green and black designs, the division page drawings, the thin black line margin, the odd and simple style of type please him even now although business and travel have had their effect upon his tastes.

He lingers on the pages of the campus views section and the march of events. He smiles at the "campus quereviews." The photography is great, there is no doubt about it—not so much of individuals, although they probably actually looked that bad—but the checking sections, the Corcoran Hall stairway, the "no parking" signs and fire plugs, and old Jim Pixlee's bald head. The young fellow who wrote the captions for the "March of Events" did very well.

Forgotten faces, forgotten names and forgotten days are recalled. The gentleman is thankful for having this book.

FLYING CHIPS

By Jimmie Haley

Realizing that medical features of activities fee had meant a saving to me, I determined to investigate and see just how the whole thing works.

"HEALTH is not valued until sickness comes" runs an old adage. The same may be said, with equal truth, about the University's Health Administration.

My recent experience—and it was an experience—with this department served to remind me, as nothing else could, of the services which are available to students who find themselves in need of medical attention.

Realizing that the medical and hospitalization features of the general activities fee had meant a real saving to me, I determined to investigate the system and see for myself just how the whole thing works.

With me, as with most students I believe, the exact items to which the fee entitled me was a little bit hazy, and this was something, too, that I wanted to ascertain definitely.

While there have reached me, in the last several years, a few complaints about the Health Administration, I believe such complaints have been the result of misunderstanding or at least were faults of individuals and not of the system.

I do not believe students generally realize the value of this service nor do they appreciate the position of those who are engaged in the department.

What comprises the medical privilege is set forth in the catalogue. But I doubt if many students ever see it there. (No, I'm not thinking that any more will see it here either, but anyway I'll state specifically what you get in this respect.)

The student is entitled to, briefly, three visits (hospital, office or home) during any one illness, and hospitalization of two weeks, including general nurse service.

The medical service is available 24 hours of the day (Sundays and holidays included) and you'd probably be surprised at the number of calls actually made between 1 a. m. and 7 a. m. These services are in addition to the complete physical examination given all full time students entering the University. Furthermore, when consulting a University physician, a student has the advantage of the facilities that go along with a doctor's office, including services of an attending nurse.

Still another service performed by the department is caring for the ill, breaks, and ailments of the athletes—which seems to me to be a big job in itself.

Several misunderstandings have arisen on this item of hospitalization. Since the facilities of the hospital are limited somewhat, the University cannot guarantee a private room; if a private room is available the student is given it, if no private room is available (which is seldom) the student is, by necessity, placed in a ward. If placed in a ward on entering, a student is moved to a private room as soon as one is vacated.

If a student is taken to the hospital for medical attention, his hospitalization will not cost him a cent. The University makes no provisions, however, for surgical operations, X-ray examinations, laboratory fees, anesthetic or operating room fees.

But just how much do those medical men get for this service? It is a question sometimes propounded by students and parents alike. The exact amount of their salaries is not available, but I'll wager that not a one of them, even the director himself, gets from the University anywhere near as much as a grade 1 Government clerk.

Of the $16.00 which a student pays in activities fees during the course of the year, I doubt seriously if more than one dollar of it ever finds its way into the Health Administration's budget.

Certainly it did not take me long to decide that our system is better than the one which the Government departments have, where it costs one dollar to join and seventy-five cents per month and entitles you to nothing but hospitalization for a limited period.

JUST BETWEEN US
Year's Most Worthy Plan Proves Saddest Failure

Band Concerts Unnecessary, but Fiesta Could Have Saved

By Verna Volz
THE saddest wasted failures of the year, ironically, is the late project of a group that promised to bring order to confusion, and efficiency out of waste.

Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional economics fraternity, gave its chapter promise to survey and plan suggestions for the expenditures of every activity on campus. This was to be their contribution to University progress.

Organizations began to look carefully to their bookkeeping in preparation for the approaching storm of order, publicity, and reform. They need not have bothered. Without an explanation, apology, or complaint from the projects to be scrutinized, the plans quietly expired.

If so, the local chapter would find the thinking campus delighted to hear it. It would be tragic should one of the most worthwhile plans ever conceived here, and one of the most widely publicized, turn out to be just the tooting of another empty horn.

It will not, apparently, be necessary for the Band to give concerts for the benefit of the Fiesta. In spite of the apprehension that might have been felt on viewing the elaborate finished product, in spite of the pessimistic tone of the harassed directors while the statements were being prepared, and in spite of the heavy expense for properties, the record profit remains.

Letters to The Hatchet Editor

Library Privileges Denied To Abusers

To the Editor of The Hatchet:

I SHOULD appreciate it if you would correct a misstatement which appeared in The University Hatchet in the article headed, "Library Adopts Fine System on Reserve Books," on page 1 of the May 14th issue. The misstatement reads: "Instead of denying the privilege of taking out any books to students who are tardy in returning them, as was proposed, under the new system the only penalty will be infliction of the fine."

In the statement to The University Hatchet I emphasized that the Librarian will continue to deny the privilege of overnight borrowing to any student who abuses the privilege, and the Deans and Professors will continue to help us get the cooperation of all who use the books.

May I congratulate The University Hatchet on the All-American Superior rating given to it by the National Scholastic Press Association.

Reporter Writes from University of Arkansas

(Editor's Note: The following letter was received from William S. McConnell, former Hatchet reporter, who was last week transferred to Fayetteville, Arkansas, in the Department of Agriculture.)

To the Editor of The Hatchet:
ARRIVED in Fayetteville, Ark., 8 a. m. Tuesday after a very nice trip, none even if it did rain most of the time and I missed seeing the Mississippi as it was dark when I came through St. Louis.

Wednesday afternoon after work I met Mary Lee Watkins on the street. She was of course very much interested in all the news I could think of to tell about G. W. Fortunately I had several issues of The Hatchet with me and so let her have those to get all the news.

She told me some of the news about the sororities and fraternities on the campus here at the Univ. of Ark. Hoping that some of it will be of interest to G. W. students I'm sending it along. She said that the fraternities, in order of membership, were Kappa Sigma, S. A. E., Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, Lambda Chi Alpha, K. A. P. K. A., A. G. Rho, S. P. E., Tau E. Phi, K. N., Theta K. N., A. L. Tau.

Kappa Sigma head both publications (Annual) Razorback and (weekly) Arkansas Traveler. In The Pan-Hell Council, in order of strength size, Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi, Delta Delta Delta, Zeta Tau Alpha, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

This is the home of Chi O, 1895. They gave to the U. a Greek amphitheatre said to be the finest of its kind in U. S.

WILLIAM S. McCONNELL.
Student Fears "Co-op" Misses Last Dance

To the Editor of The Hatchet:
IT looks as if the holders of the Student Council "Co-ops" are going to lose out on the second Student Council Dance. The dance has been paid for by the owners of the "Co-ops" but as the school year ends no plans for the dance have been made public.

If this is because the Student Council has overlooked the matter, may I suggest that they schedule the dance on either Friday, May 31, or Saturday, June 1, as the final social function for the school year.

However, if it could be that the Student Council is omitting this dance because of lack of time or money, it must be remembered that they have failed to supply the number of social functions to which they sold tickets. The effect of not giving the dance would probably mean the loss of student interest in the sale of "Co-ops" next fall.

The "Co-op" has made a good start at the University, and I believe that it has been appreciated, but if they are to be sold next year its record for this year must be kept clear.

Did You Know That...

By Mary E. Kunna

OF the three Washingtonians who just returned from Antarctica with the Byrd expedition, two are George Washington graduates. They are William C. Haines and George Grimmering.

Haines left his post as chief of the Weather Bureau station at Washington Airport to make the trip to Little America as Byrd's chief meteorologist. Haines, a native of Reinerville, Ohio, served in the Army Signal Corps during the World War and attained the rank of sergeant, first class. He attended schools in Ohio and came to George Washington to complete his education. He also accompanied Byrd into the Arctic in 1926. Except for the time spent with the Byrd expeditions, he has been in Washington since 1922. He established the Washington Bureau station and was its first chief. He is returning to duty at the Weather Bureau.

George Grimmering was born and spent his early life in St. Louis. He came to Washington six years ago and while on duty at the Weather Bureau was a student at the University. He had earned his A. B. and was working for a master's degree when he left to conduct special aerological studies in Antarctica. He too is returning to the Weather Bureau.

These two men have brought back tens of thousands of detailed weather observations from Little America and various outposts, including Byrd's advanced station. It is estimated that six months of these records which will provide the finest picture of arctic weather conditions yet obtained.

Four New Books Get Attention

Some Good Reading for Dull Week-ends

By Brooke Stewart

SO many books of so many different sorts and descriptions have come to my attention this week, that it would be a discouraging task to single one out. Instead I think I'll try a new trick on the long-suffering reader and turn the column into an informal chat about as many books as I can get in.

First, there's the Delafieldian "Diary of a Pensionnaire" by a young woman who tells her sex behind the name of Martin Hare. It's a lively and charming book about the curious people who live, infest or vegetate in a quaint little French inn, and should make good week-end reading.

Speaking of gender-concealing names, how many of you knew that Mazo de la Roche was a woman? Since my introduction to "Jalna" years ago in the Atlantic Monthly, I have followed the series of novels about the Whiteoaks Clan with much interest but no particular excitement. "Young Renny," the current Jalna tome, is no exception. Much on the same style as its predecessors, it swings back to the beginning of the century and picks up the then-youthful generation of Whiteoaks. It is fine light reading guaranteed to take the mind off exams.

For those perennial poetry-lovers who like to wander off book in hand to the shady wilds on spring days, "No Traveller Returns" will be a God-send. Joseph Auslander, whose poems I have seen occasionally, outdoes himself in this little volume of about a hundred and fifty selections. Some of the sonnets contain such exquisite examples of speech figures that I almost regret not devoting the entire space to this book so that I could quote a few lines.

In view of the increasingly popular conviction among superstitious reactionaries that Hitler is the Antichrist, Joseph Roth's essay by that name should be of interest. "Antichrist" is a book about Evil in the Modern World. It is a cry to the world to leave off its wicked ways and climb back onto the straight and narrow. The average college student could well afford to read it nor would he run the risk of boredom, for, despite its excessive morality of method and purpose, its sincere and modest air coupled with an ingenious style, makes the little volume as fresh and enjoyable as a good novel.

The Federal Government's reforestation program has created such a demand for college-trained foresters that students at the Colorado Agricultural College are leaving their classes to accept government positions.

W.A.A. Ends Sports Season With Supper

Gretchen Feiker Receives W. A. A. Board Award As Outstanding Senior

The Women's Athletic Association ended a successful sports season with an informal supper at the Admiral Sunday night. Awards were presented and informal speeches given. The W. A. A. Executive Board Award was given to Gretchen Feiker, past president of W. A. A. for two years and winner of innumerable letters and cups, as the most outstanding senior. The award was given on the basis of leadership, scholarship, service, and sportsmanship.

Ruth Critchfield, newly elected president of W. A. A., introduced the speakers and distributed awards. The first speaker was Frances Ridgway, president of Fins, who announced the following officers of the club for next year: Bertha Lockhart, president; Whitney Strayer, vice president; Irma Johnson, secretary; and Dorothy Buck, treasurer.

Jane Harrison, senior manager of baseball, gave a resume of the baseball season. The results of the games played off Saturday afternoon were as follows: freshmen vs. sophomore-juniors, 35-11, freshmen victors; seniors vs. freshmen, 9-2, in favor of seniors; seniors vs. sophomore-juniors, 9-2, in favor of seniors, and the odd-even game, 20-1, the odds winning.

Natalie Hicks, archery manager, announced the winners of the tournament. Irma Johnson was first with a score of 194, and Verna Volz was a close second with a score of 193. Honorable mention was given to Jane Harrison and Madeline Johnson, who placed third and fourth, respectively. Charlotte Hazard won the beginners' tournament and Lucy Eastham was second.

The riding show was reported by Maxine Farley, manager, and a cup was given to Eleanor Wyvell, winner of the show.

Just A Line To Annabelle

Glee Club Concert Lures Graduates. Wherefore Of Austin Gattis' Appearance in Tails. Phi Mu's Go Bar-B-Q-ing.

My dear Annabelle:

For the moment social events have simmered down to a standstill because of the current exams in the Law School and the impending exams in other departments of the University.

Incidentally I noticed Austin Gattis around school Wednesday still wearing his tails to which he had added a sweater and a vivid green tie. It seems that he had become ill, had spent the night at Bill Derrick's, and thus was forced to attend classes in such unusual attire.

The Zetas were quite busy Thursday and Friday. Thursday they and their dates danced at Kenwood Country Club and the next night the actives, alumnae, and mothers had a grand get-together.

The Phi Mu's had a grand time Saturday afternoon at a bar-B-Q given for the G. W. and American University chapters and alumnae at the home of Mrs. J. Foster Hagan in Ballston, Va.

The Phi Sigs have been socially active this last week. Monday they entertained members of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity. Wednesday they gave a bingo party; Saturday, a Glen Echo party; and Sunday, a picnic in Rock Creek Park.

Sunday morning, May 26, the Newman Club will hold its annual breakfast at the Mayflower.

The Phi Mu spring formal will take place Wednesday, May 29, at the National Woman's Country Club. "Moods in Blue" of Fiesta fame will supply the tunes. On the same date S. A. E. will give its annual closed spring formal at the house.

Delta Zeta will give its spring formal at National Women's Country Club May 31.

Saturday, June 1, will be a busy day. The Alumni will hold a business meeting in the Chinese Room of the Mayflower to be followed by a reception and dance in honor of the June graduates in the main ballroom. The Law School Alumni Association will hold a banquet at the Mayflower, too. The same evening Sigma Nu will hold a formal dance at the house to be followed by a breakfast. Jack Benson's orchestra will be the tunesmiths.

The seniors will have their baccalaureate sermon Sunday, June 2, at 8 p. m. in the Great Choir of Washington Cathedral.

Monday, June 3, from 4 to 7 p. m., the Washington Club will be the scene of the president's reception for graduates, their parents, Junior College graduates, and the family.

The traditional Class Night exercises will take place in the University Yard June 4 at 8 p. m. The same evening Chi O will hold its spring formal at the National Women's Country Club and the Newman Club will sponsor a benefit performance at the National Theatre.

Then Wednesday, June 5, will come the climax of many a student's ambition—the 114th Commencement at Constitution Hall.

The K. A.'s will have a spring formal at the Manor Club Friday, June 7, in honor of Minor Hudson and Sue Johnson, whose marriage will take place on June 15.

Well, in a week or so exams will be over and then you may expect to hear from me again.

As ever,
SANDY.

Co-eds Sport Latest Summer Fashions at Glee Club Dance

By Sandy Shore

Soft materials of pastel hues, harbingers of summer, appeared in all their glory at the combined Glee Clubs' Concert and Dance at the Willard last Tuesday.

Alice Klopstad's pea-green crepe had a shawl collar and belt of burnt orange with a huge crushed silk flower of the same hue in front. Janice Hynton's baby blue satin cut on simple lines and absolutely unadorned was especially becoming to her type and coloring. Sue Slater wore a black mouseline de sole over a flesh silk slip. It was cut on unusual lines and featured a cascade of ruffles falling from the square décolletage to the hem. A cluster of black and red cherries and red velvet sash added a touch of color.

Helen Bealke wore swirling black net. Her only adornments were ear-rings, and clips of matching brilliants. Adele Meriam's full sheer black net was worn over a tight black slip. A deep ruffle of taffeta at the hem of net and around the neck heightened its dramatic effect. The most unusual features of Jane Norford's black taffeta were deep white-faced vertical fluting at the hem and a V-shaped strap arrangement.

Jane Hughes wore black chiffon with tiny white pin point dots. Insets at the hem gave added fullness. Olivia Nixon's cobalt blue net had a horizontal bar design imposed on it and a bertha arranged in tiers so that it was longer in back than in front. Shirley Mangam wore a chartreuse crepe cut on simple lines, with a V-shaped décolletage and a wide belt with a large cloth-covered buckle.

Louise Drennon wore a pale beige embroidered organza with stiffened ruffles at the neck and hemline. Ann Pace's peach crepe was belted, featured a slight cowl neck in front and had flowers of the same material outlining the décolletage. Margaret Long's mixed green and yellow flowered crepe was covered by a sea-green silk fish net with a cape of the same material.

Nancy McLennon's scarlet chiffon was marked with a waffle design. The costume was completed by a cape of the same material and a huge white silk flower in front. Ruth Moore's dress exemplified the business trend in evening gowns. The tan and yellow checked skirt was topped with a white pique blouse with a tie at the throat and three large buttons down the front. Mary Shelton wore a pink taffeta reminiscent of the nineties. The square décolletage and puff sleeves were outlined with a tiny white lace ruffle.

Hour Glass Initiates Tonight

Hour Glass will hold initiation for Helen Buntin, Ruth Critchfield, Leila Fern, and Marjorie Behn tonight at 7 o'clock in the Kappa Kappa Gamma rooms.

The initiates will be honored at a banquet afterwards at the Parrot.

Kappa's, Sigma Kappa's Tie For Sorority Award

Award Made at Annual Panhellenic Luncheon Saturday

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Kappa were jointly awarded the Panhellenic scholarship cups for highest scholarship during the 1934-1935 year at the annual Panhellenic Scholarship luncheon held Saturday at the Brooke Farm Tea House. Both the sororities had a 2.61 average. The Kappa's placed first last year.

Mary Louise Yauch, outgoing president of Panhel, presided and introduced the speakers, Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows and Dean Elmer L. Kayser. As Mary Spelman, the new president, read the names of the sororities on campus, the senior Panhellenic delegate arose and introduced the junior delegate and the active and pledge in her sorority with the highest scholarship standing for the past semester.

Loeffler Named Intramural Mgr.

Eldridge Loeffler was elected president of the women's intramural board last week.

Each sorority submitted two names to the board for selection of the delegate from that group for the coming year. Those voted on and approved are as follows: Chi Omega, Ansley Spaulding; Sigma Kappa, Mettie Hatch; Phi Mu, Katherine Black; Alpha Delta Pi, Louise Kramer; Delta Zeta, Eleanor Livingston; Kappa Delta, Katherine Riley; Zeta Tau Alpha, Audrey McCuen; Alpha Delta Theta, Elizabeth Cotton; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Mary Maxon; Beta Pi Alpha, Louise Selfert; Phi Sigma Sigma, Constance Levinson; Alpha Epsilon Phi, Ruth Fox; and Colonial Campus Club, Mary Lois Rice.

The orchestra will present a special arrangement of University tunes and during the grand march will introduce the new George Washington University Alumni March, which was written by Dr. Rudolph Bloom '34. As an added feature, the Glee Club will entertain.

Who's Who

It would be an interesting problem to attempt to ascertain who is the most interesting man at present attending the University. It would be difficult, but the field would necessarily narrow down to a few. Among that few would undoubtedly be Richard Murphy.

Not that he's a big shot or a politician, or like any of those brilliant young men who may be observed around the campus. He never chose to be prominent in the activities that make for O. D. K. Instead he

RICHARD MURPHY applied himself to those which require sound thinking without resultant fame, to those which require hard work without heaping honors, and primarily those requiring a serious bent.

His primary work has been on the business staff of the University Hatchet, although he occasionally has wandered into the editorial rooms to pound out a feature about the Hawaiian Islands or a story on the Speakers Congress. This year he was elected Hatchet business manager.

Murphy's freshman year was spent at the University of Texas, as was his junior year. In between, however, he sojourned at the University of Hawaii, of which he occasionally reminisces. The last two years he has spent here.

His major is in political science, and his knowledge thereof was the reason for his occupying an office in the International Relations Club. His knowledge of business means and methods won him the management of the Masonic Club cherry blossom drive.

At present he is the Speaker of Speakers Congress. But it's beginning to get him, however, because generally all he can do is sit back and recognize people and he'd rather be in the fight.

Next year, however, when he has entered the Law School he can fight all he wants to in moot court, without ever having to worry about sitting back and recognizing people.

Work To Begin On Science Hall

practicability has been stressed. It will be of steel-frame construction finished in brick and painted white. Following the modern trend in construction, all classrooms will open to the outside with numerous large windows in every room. The total area of window glass to be contained in the building will be equal to 25 percent of the floor space.

The use of many windows in wide sets will lend to the finished building and elongated appearance of stability. The impression will be further heightened by the use of long sweeping lines on the face of the structure.

Half Million Cubic Feet

The half million cubic feet the building occupies is taken up by 45 rooms of varying sizes for use as offices, classrooms, and laboratories.

Predominant in the basement floor will be a large men's lounge room, measuring 75 feet in length by 30 feet in width. It will be available to all men students of the University at all times and will provide easy chairs and game tables of all sorts. Also in the basement will be located the storage rooms for the departments of zoology and botany.

The first floor will contain the offices and waiting rooms of the deans of the Junior and Columbian College, the office of the registrar and his vault room, and three classrooms.

The second floor will consist of seven recitation classrooms for the departments of zoology and botany. Offices of the department of zoology will be located on the third floor, as will be the departmental library of the biological sciences and its reading room.

Second Floor Rooms

On the second floor also will be found a seminar room, two graduate laboratories, one large freshman laboratory, and two advanced laboratories.

The offices of the department of botany, four teaching laboratories, three research laboratories, a seminar room, and a photographic room and dark room will be found on the fourth floor.

On the roof of the new Biological Sciences Building will be constructed a large greenhouse, twice the size of the old one, for the use of the botany department.

Many Washington residents, in addition to regularly enrolled candidates for degrees, have attended Dean Wilbur's classes in English rhetoric, used until February as a text book in freshman English.

Dean Wilbur's services as advisor and counselor will remain available to Dr. Marvin and the University, an administration spokesman said.

Dean and Mrs. Wilbur will return from a winter vacation in Florida about June 1.

Official Instruction For All Graduates

Following are the instructions issued to seniors by Elmer L. Kayser, marshal of the University.

Academic costume will be worn at the Baccalaureate Service, Class Night, and Commencement. Candidates for the Junior Certificate will wear caps and gowns; candidates for degrees will wear caps, gowns, and hoods appropriate to the degree to be received.

Caps, gowns, and hoods will be issued to students at the Cathedral and should be retained until after Commencement. Caps, gowns, and hoods will also be available at Constitution Hall on Wednesday evening before Commencement.

All candidates for degrees will wear hoods at all the exercises, with the exception of candidates for the Doctorate who will be invested with hoods when the degree is conferred. Candidates for the Junior Certificate will wear tassels on the right side of caps throughout. Candidates for degrees will wear tassels on the right but will shift them to the left as they leave the platform at Commencement.

Flowers should not be worn with academic costume.

Dark clothes, shoes, and hose should be worn. Men will remove caps only during prayer and the playing of the National Anthem.

The Baccalaureate Service begins at 8 o'clock promptly as does also Class Night and Commencement. Members of the academic procession should be ready to be formed in line a half hour before the beginning of the exercises. The audience should be in place by 7:50. No cards of admission will be required for the Service or for Class Night.

Commencement cards will be required of all including members of the graduating classes. At the Service and Class Night, candidates for degrees will not be separated into classes. At Commencement the line will be formed precisely in the order as given in the program. Care must be taken to see that candidates go on to the platform in this order.

At the Service, members of the Board of Trustees and the faculty will form in line in Bethlehem Chapel and will find it most convenient to enter the Cathedral by the Chapel entrance. The Glee Club will obtain caps and gowns and will form in the North Crypt. Candidates for degrees will enter through the curator's office and form in the South Crypt.

At Class Night, candidates for degrees will be formed in procession in Stockton Hall.

At Commencement, members of the Board of Trustees, Deans and Directors, and candidates for the Doctorate (Ph. D. and Ed. D.) will assemble in the president general's reception room in Constitution Hall. Members of the faculty will assemble in the basement lounge. Candidates for degrees who have not previously obtained academic costume, may do so in the basement lounge. Signs will be placed in the south lobby of Constitution Hall showing where each college, school, or division will be formed. Members of the various groups can be of material assistance in arranging themselves according to the order given in the program. This order must be followed throughout in order that each candidate will receive his own diploma from the president.

By Sid Carroll

WITH baseball, tennis and other sports page each week we have had little room for anything else. Football has been nearly forgotten as far as space in The Hatchet is concerned. Nevertheless, we can not forget it and now let us get down to the prospects of the 1935 edition of the Colonials football team.

The team will face the strongest opposition any Colonial football club has ever undertaken with Alabama, Rice, Tulsa and West Virginia slated to offer the major portion of it.

"Possum Jim" Pixlee lost only three regulars by graduation this year and the reserves should readily step into their shoes. Capt. Ed Clark, Hank Strayer, and Bill Parrish are the departed ones.

Dale Prather or Ed Watts should be ready to step into the hole left vacant by Clark. Both are capable linemen and lack nothing in the way of weight and brawn. With Captain-elect Harry Deming at the other tackle position the team will possess the finest tackles ever to wear the Buff and Blue.

Henry Vonder Bruegge and Ab Wright, two versatile wingmen, should fill the gap left by Parrish. And with the return of Arnold Benefield to form the three boys will be on their toes all the time fighting for the two end positions. Probably the hardest position to fill will be that left by Hank Strayer. He was not only a fine defensive guard, but was a valuable asset when it came to pulling out of the line and opening huge holes for the Colonial backs.

Three men will be battling for his position. Bill Parrack, Charlie Mann and Harold Brockell are the candidates. Parrack will probably be the pre-season favorite because of his fine work in the "sub" role last year. Several times he proved his value last season by filling in place of Strayer or Sid Kolker. Kolker will be at one guard and with the other three battling for the other position, the guard positions should be well taken care of.

The big question in the line will be who is going to be "Red" Rathjen's understudy. Several times last season he was forced to leave the game because of his two bad knees. Then Bernie Witucki was always ready to fill in, but now he has graduated and someone must be found to play the sub role. Who will it be? Time alone will tell.

The backfield will be intact from last season and with last year's experience helping them along the Colonials should have a backfield hard to beat. "Tuffy" Leemans again will be the ball-carrying mainstay, but Ben Plotnicki, "Kutch" Kavalier and George Jenkins will undoubtedly relieve Leemans of some of the ball-toting. Herb Reeves and Ray Hanken will play an important part in Pixlee's plans for next fall. However, Reeves must be cured of his one fault—that of fumbling.

The freshman team of last season must not be forgotten when it comes to making plans for the fall. Several of the frosh showed their ability to give and take in scrimmages against the varsity last fall and with additional seasoning may blossom forth into regulars before the '35 season comes to a close.

All in all, 1935 should be the greatest year yet experienced by the Colonial gridsters.

Kitts Is Optimistic Over Prospects
Of Football Team at Rice This Year

By Roland Spencer
Jimmy Kitts is optimistic. The former star of the Southern Methodists and now head football coach at Rice Institute believes that the 1935 edition of the Owls will be considerably stronger than last year's team, which numbered among its victims the Purdue Boilermakers, Southern Methodist, Texas, Arkansas, and Creighton. It lost only to Texas Christian and tied Louisiana State, 14-14.

In this connection it is interesting to note the Dickinson ratings, as found in Frank Menke's "All Sports Record Book" and elsewhere. By this nationally recognized rating system, Rice ranks first in the country and Alabama a close second.

This year the Blue and Gray will play six Southwest Conference games and tangle with Louisiana, Duquesne, Creighton, and George Washington in four inter-sectional games.

Assisting Jimmy Kitts, who is also a brilliant basketball coach, is Lou Harberberger, former St. Edwards University star who coaches the line, and Cecil Grigg, former

Baseball Team Concludes Season Against Marines

A Victory Would Give G. W. .500
Average for YearGame To Be Played at Quantico; De Angelis To Pitch for Colonials

The Colonials will stack their bats after today's game with the Marines at Quantico, Va., until next year. Last week the Leathernecks beat G. W., 9-2, on the Ellipse. The game was originally scheduled for yesterday, but was moved back a day.

A victory over the Marines would give the Buff a .500 average for the season. To date the Colonials have won five and lost six contests.

Vinnie DeAngelis is expected to toe the mound in an effort to get revenge on the Marines. Bill Tarver, Bill Noonan, and DeAngelis all saw action from the pitchers' mound in the last game with the Leathernecks.

Henry will probably hurl for the Marines in an effort to take two straight from the Colonials. He limited the G. W. sluggers to eight hits in the last game.

It will be the last game the boys will have to improve on their batting averages. Only three regulars are boasting a stick average of over .300. Steve Walker is batting .333, Lefty Johnson .319 and Tom Melpolder .304.

Several of the losses this season can be traced directly to the poor batting averages. The team as a whole is batting only .203 or an average of 8 hits per game for eleven games.

The line-up is expected to be the same as in the past few games with Webb in left, Williams on second, Johnson on first, Stapleton at third, Albert in center, Berg at short, Walker catching, either Melpolder or Backus in right and DeAngelis pitching, but batting in the number five position.

With two savage blows of their potent bats, the slugging Junior College knocked the Engineers out of the intramural lead and clinched the championship by scores of 7-6, and 9-1. The Juniors must only subdue the pharmacists to make a clean sweep of the series.

In the best pitched game of the series, "Tuffy" Leemans got sweet revenge for a beating handed him last year by the Engineers by letting them down with three scattered hits and coasting to a 9-1 victory. Fulmer of the Engineers also pitched well, allowing six hits but got poor support, in sharp contrast to the fine work of the Junior College infield which played spectacularly, cutting down many seemingly sure hits.

Rathjen received the slugging honors with two safe bingles.

On Tuesday Slim Whitley of the Juniors and Carl Hobman locked horns in a pitching duel which saw the former slightly shade his opponent by giving the Engineers only six hits, while his mates got eight. The score was tied twice, Junior College finally going ahead to stay in the sixth. Wetzel of the Engineers got three hits, while Reeves got two.

When the Owls play the Colonials they will flash a flock of veterans, led by Bill Wallace, All-American halfback; John McCaulley, 200-pound quarterback; Captain Sam Mays, 200-pound tackle; Primo Miller, 225-pound tackle; Harry Witt, 205-pound fullback.

However, the 1934 freshman team was unusually strong and several of the veterans will be hard pressed to retain their starting jobs. The outstanding recruit from this freshman team is Marion Asbell, 210-pound halfback who is a veritable speed demon and an excellent kicker.

The Bayou City School uses the short punt and the single and double wingback formations. Last fall Rice featured a powerful running game and a deceptive passing attack, featuring Bill Wallace, southpaw passer par excellence.

Colonial Netmen
Trim Temple, 5-4

Making a brilliant comeback after trailing 4-2, the varsity netmen ended a successful season Wednesday by overcoming Temple, 5-4, Wednesday at Columbia. The Colonials compiled a record of six victories against a lone defeat, administered by Duke's netmen, for the season.

Pierre Howard and Max Kay accounted for the Buff's only singles victories to keep G. W. in the running. Howard defeated the Owl's ace player, Capt. Eddie Borden, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, while Kay trimmed Kurtz, 6-2, 6-1.

Upholding the slogan in the athletic office of "winners never give up," the Colonials staged a gallant rally to capture all of the doubles and swing victory over in their favor. Howard-Musser had little difficulty with Yun-Borden winning 6-2, 6-3. The other two matches were bitterly contested with Langtry-Pierce defeating Yarnall-Goldman, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, and Kay-Howell triumphing over Kurtz-Friedman, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

In the other singles matches, Captain Ted Pierce lost to Yarnall 6-2, 6-3; Wilbur Langtry was beaten by Goldman 3-6, 6-3, 6-2; and Sam Walker was defeated by Yun 6-2, 6-1.

Game Listed for Next Sunday; Each Won Five Games in Leagues

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Sigma Kappa clash for the interfraternity baseball crown Sunday. S. A. E. beat the Phi Sigs, 8-2, last year in the final.

S. A. E. shut-out the Acacia nine Sunday, 10-0, to gain the League B crown and Phi Sigma Kappa beat S. P. E., 6-1, for the League A title.

Herb Reeves, on the mound for S. A. E., turned back 13 Acacia batters via the strikeout route and yielded only one hit. He did not grant a base on balls.

S. A. E. scored six runs in the first inning before Bill Helvestine was rushed into the game. He held the S. A. E. sluggers to four well scattered runs the rest of the route.

In the other games in League B, Sigma Nu whipped S. M. S., 10-8, and Delta Tau Delta gained a forfeit from T. U. O.

Sigma Chi and Kappa Alpha played to a 2-2 tie in League A before they were forced to give up the diamond. The game will be played on a later date.

Rebukes Lead Pierre Howard
To Play Best Tennis of Year

Several weeks ago after Pierre Howard lost two of his first three matches as the number one player on the Colonial tennis team, there were idle rumors to the effect that Pierre didn't deserve his position and that he should be replaced. The Hatchet subscribed to this theory.

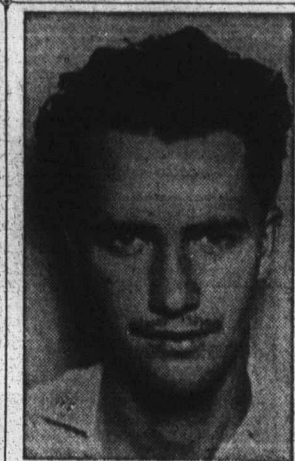

Now if there's anything that provokes an athlete it's to have whispers flying about that he is slipping, that he in a slump and should be benched or dropped into a lower position. Some go slightly crazy and nearly murder the writer who had the nerve to write such a thing. Others sulk and perform worse than before. A few take the hint and resolve to snap out of it. They generally get good results.

Howard was heard to threaten several members of The Hatchet sports staff, but not very convincingly. It was also noticed that his tennis had improved about 30 per cent. His opponents no longer played a careless, clownish player. They played a serious, business-like man who went after every point as if his life depended on it.

The conclusive chapter in Howard's reform was written out at Columbia Wednesday when the Buff closed its season by beating Temple. Pierre downed Eddie Borden, captain and ace of the Owls, who had won his matches consistently all year including the fast Navy lead-off man as one of his victims. Dropping the first set, Howard then went on to play some of the best tennis shown here all season and won 6-4, 7-5.

The baseball team extended its losing streak to four straight games by losing to the Quantico Marines, 9-2, last Wednesday and dropping two games on the road. Wake Forest gave the Colonials its second trimming 5-1, and Elon blanked them, 7-0.

Bill Tarver, Bill Noonan and Vinnie De Angelis worked in the game with the Marines and portioned out 16 hits to the fighting Leathernecks. The Colonials gathered eight safeties off of Henry, Lefty Johnson, capable Colonial first sacker, collected four of them.

George Washington went south Friday to obtain revenge over Wake Forest for the first licking, but only demonstrated that they could take it as the Deacons came through with a 5-1 victory. "Stretch" Patton's homer with one on in the second was enough to win the ball game. Gaddy held the Colonials to five hits while De Angelis allowed eight.

Elon completed a disastrous road trip for the Colonials by shutting them out for the first time since baseball was revived here. Elon gathered all of its tallies in the fourth when Noonan was reached for four singles and two doubles. The Southerners only got one other hit.

Time Discusses New Publication By Upton Close

Biographical Sketch of Graduate's Life Included in Letters

"Challenge: Behind the Face of Japan," written by Upton Close, '15, is the subject of a lengthy discussion in the current issue of Letters, supplement published by Time.

Close's story concerns a Japanese cement tycoon who averted disaster on a ship built from bungled blueprints, and it is this incident which brings in the article on the book, and subsequently a biographical sketch of the author.

Was Correspondent

Author Close, who graduated from the University as Josef Washington Hall, got his knowledge of Japan and the Japanese through investigating Nippon penetration into China as a correspondent for American newspapers.

He obtained his pen name when he signed a dispatch Up Close and United States newspapers used the name as a by-line. It later became Upton Close.

In West Virginia

Mr. Hall began his after-graduation career as an evangelist in the West Virginia mountains. He met with only questionable success in pacifying two feuding mountain families as a minister and soon quit and sailed for China to sell Chinese newspaper subscriptions, write poetry and become correspondent to American papers.

Close has taken seven expeditions of study groups to Japan since 1930 but last year took 12 weeks off to write his "Challenge." Time says that the work "definitely proved Close to be one of the ablest historians of contemporary Asia."

Gardner Selected Congress Speaker

Gaumann, Roark, Colman, Bunch, Murphy, Coggins Elected

Machin Gardner was elected speaker following a banquet of the Speakers Congress Wednesday night at 1219 G st.

Other officers elected to serve next fall are William Gaumann, speaker pro tem; Lee Roark, chief clerk; Charles Colman, assistant chief clerk; Felix Bunch, treasurer; Richard Murphy, parliamentarian; and John Coggins, sergeant-at-arms. John Barbers was re-elected national delegate. Approximately 30 people were present at the banquet, including members and their friends.

Felix Bunch, who presided at the dinner, called upon each member to talk for two minutes. It was decided to shelve such subjects as NRA, social insurance, and armaments for the evening, and the impromptu discourses covered everything from tiddie-winks as a major activity, to the philosophical position of Immanuel Kant on the use of ponies in examinations.

The council of officers will meet Wednesday night in Corcoran Hall to discuss plans for next fall.

Doyle, Johnstone, Kayser, Farrington, Barrows on Faculty Committee Pick Seniors as Representative Leaders in Activity Fields

Eight members of the graduating class were singularly honored yesterday with the announcement of the "Hall of Fame" in the Cherry Tree. The eight were Betty Brown, John Busick, Amanda Chittum, Bernard Fagelson, Gretchen Feiker, Adele Gusack, Walter Rhinehart, and Henry Ruley.
